

Because of a FCC ruling, my ONLY in-state TV channel (WKYTV) out of Lexington is most often blacked-out. The people in this section of Ky has missed many specials because of this ruling. I have complained to my law makers, my cable company and anyone else I thought might help. So far, no one seems to be able to help. I don't think it's fair that a station in West Va can tell my cable company in Ohio what I can watch in Ky. I know that I'm only one small voice, but this really upsets me every time I would like to watch a show that is only being aired on WKYTV but is blacked-out. What can an average person do to stop this practice? Don't tell me to complain to my cable company as this hasn't helped in the past. Please help!!!!!!!!!!
